I apologize for not getting back to you earlier. I was out last week and forgot to put an extended absence message on my voicemail. I do not have a list of the cases that have dealt with EJ analyses. There are some that arose from permits that went to the Environmental Appeals Board, as well as federal courts. I hope this helps.

Hi Michele,

My name is Parks Barroso, I'm a summer law clerk at R8 ORC and am working with Kimi Matsumoto on the Dewey Burdock project. I'm emailing to follow up on a voicemail I left with you last week, concerning Federal case law and environmental justice analysis.

For the project I am compiling a case summary of federal court cases that address environmental justice analyses done by federal agencies. Is this kind of case study something you or someone else in your office has done in the past? Kimi and I were speaking and thought you may have worked on something similar.

I look forward to speaking with you!

Best,
Parks
